Jinx Follows Hull As Peek Is Put Over His Head on Tariffs

WASHINGTON—Poor old Cordell Hull is having a run of hard luck. With his chief bete noir, Professor Wiley, and his clan out of the way, he now has another appointed slipped over his head.

The latest is George Peck, retiring chief of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Peck is given the job of negotiating tariff bargains with foreign countries to promote the export of American farm goods.

The irony of it is that for a decade Cordell Hull sat on the Ways and Means Committee of the House, opposed Republican members in boosting tariff rates, became the greatest tariff authority in the Democratic Party.

Now for the first time in his life Hull gets a chance to lower tariffs—and Peck is put over his head to do the job.

Devoted Tammanyite

Antonio Gonzalez, American Minister to Panama, owes his appointment to his good friend Barney Baruch, but he is even more devoted to Tammany Hall. So much so that when Mayor-elect Fiorella LaGuardia recently visited Panama, Gonzalez secretly tried to put a crimp in his reception.

He sought out President Arias, advised strongly against an official welcome to the Fuson victor. Arias, who knew LaGuardia as a militant liberal Congressman and regards him highly, was amazed.

"But, Mr. Minister," he protested, "Major LaGuardia is the Mayor-elect of your city, the largest in the world. In your newspapers I read that the office of Mayor of New York is the third most important political post in America."

"He is only mayor," Gonzalez explained. "Tammany has got the power. It is still boss of the city."

President Arias was unimpressed. He not only personally welcomed LaGuardia, but gave a high reception in his honor, had the city of Panama make him an honorary citizen.

Gonzalez kept aloof, and LaGuardia gave him the cold shoulder. He did not call at the American Legation though he paid his respects to other American officials.

Short & Snappy

Members of Congress back for the approaching session say the word is quickly being passed to them that the President wants it "short and snappy."

They are being told that the White House plans to exert every effort to prevent a long drawn out session, will seek to persuade Congress to wind up by April 1, at the latest.

To push its program, the Administration will use the same strategy worked during last Spring's special session—dominate the legislative calendar with its own bills to the exclusion of everything else.

But the idea of a short session doesn't sit well with the members, for various reasons:

1. Long accustomed to having a free hand over the legislative calendar, most of them resent having it run by the firm hand of the White House.
2. A short session would mean limited opportunities for political oratory—a most important phase of every legislative meet.
3. With congressional elections due next year, members are far from eager to get through early. Most of them want the session to run into July at least, so they can use their chambers as forums for long-range campaigning.

Dissatisfaction

The Administration is going to have to do something about the House Loan Act.

WHITE ASKS GLASS SALE IN OHIO LAW

Senate Fight Expected To Hinge About That Plan; Meeting Today.

STUDY MONOPOLY

Many Amendments May Delay Final Vote

COLUMBUS, Dec. 19.—In the face of rabid Senate opposition, Governor George White declared today that he was "standing fast" to a provision in the proposed liquor control law for Ohio for the sale of hard liquor by the glass.

However, the governor stated, if both the Senate and the house vote to eliminate the sale by glass from the measure he will not veto the bill when it comes to him for his signature.

A poll of Senate members, conducted this morning by Senator W. H. Annat (D) of Cleveland, indicated, Annat said, that 16 are opposed to the inclusion of the provision in the bill.

While keen interest was centered on the Senate's attitude toward the sale-by-glass provision, indications were as the upper house prepared to convene and take up the liquor control measure as passed by the State House of Representatives last week, that a landslide of amendments to the measure would be dropped into the Senate hopper.

BOOST SALARIES

Among other amendments which were expected to be brought out on the floor of the Senate when the bill is brought out from the committee was one, having the endorsement of Governor White, proposing to raise the salaries of the control commission from $4,000 to $6,500.

Another amendment, which was expected to have little trouble in obtaining approval, was one proposed to give druggists in the state holding federal prescription permits the right to retail hard liquor for 30 days while the provisions of the permanent liquor control system are being set up and put into operation.

This amendment, likewise, carried the approval of Governor White. It is designed as a stop-gap measure to tide the state over pending the organizing of the state liquor control system of liquor dispensing, as provided in the bill.

The major battle of the Senate, however, was expected to center about the sale-by-the-glass feature of the measure. As passed by the House of Representatives last week, the bill provides for state monopoly and the sale of liquor by the glass in districts (cities or towns) which had voted "wet" in the November election.

Blaze Trail Across Sky After Visiting Four Continents and 31 Nations.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Blazing another scintillating page of aerial history across the international skyline, the flying Lindberghs were home this afternoon in their red and black monoplane.

Testing the points of the compass in his trans-Atlantic survey for the Pan American Airways System, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, with his wife for a working partner, have flown 29,081 miles when the Journey's end is recorded.

The noted aerial team has visited four continents and 31 nations and colonies since they pointed for the Arctic five months ago.

3 A. M. Time To Close Columbus 'Hot Spots'

COLUMBUS, Dec. 19.—"Three o'clock in the morning" will be closing time in all night clubs of Columbus and the rest of Franklin county under a code of ethics advanced by the club operators here today.

A minimum cover charge of 25 cents in all the clubs also is provided in the code, which is scheduled to become effective on Jan. 1. Homer Young heads a staff of officers named by the group.

Local Bankers To Study Code

Pickaway-co bankers will meet in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday to discuss the proposed banking code for Ohio under the National Recovery act. George P. Hunsicker, Williamsport, chairman of the county group, will preside at the meeting.

Clark Will, vice president of the Third National bank and president of the Ohio Bankers' association, will probably lead the discussion since he is well-versed on the code's details.

such institutions have been rendering gratis.

Rules governing service charges in this state were drawn up by the Ohio Bankers' association, which withheld details of the various fees pending approval of the proposed schedule by N. R. A. officials in Washington.

Depositors who heretofore have been privileged to issue as many checks as they wished, regardless of the size of their bank balance, under the new N. R. A. service charges will be required to pay a small fee for each check in excess of a stated minimum regulated by the amount of their balance.

A nominal service charge also was recommended for persons cashing checks at banks where they maintain no account.

Because of the proximity of the new year and in view of the short time in which the bankers' association had to prepare the proposed schedule of fees, it was considered probable that inauguration of the service charges might be delayed until shortly after Jan. 1.

OHIO STUDENT KILLS INTRUDER WHOM HE AVOWED WAS BANDIT

Nephew of Congressman Stephen Young Says Farmer, Inquiring Concerning Lights on Car, Tried To Pull Girl From Parked Automobile.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 19.—A farmer returning home from a church meeting who was mistaken for a "petting party" bandit was shot to death today by the nephew of a prominent Congressman as the youth sought to prevent what he considered an attempt to drag his pretty co-ed companion from their parked automobile.

Both occupants of the automobile, Britton Young, a nephew of Congressman A. C. Large Stephen Young, and Miss Ruth Beiter, 21, of Canton, O., were students at Western Reserve university here. The youth was said to be one of the most popular men on the Western Reserve campus.

AT BIBLE MEETING

Victim of the shooting which occurred in a lonely section of suburban Pepper Pike village, was Carl Melting, 48, a Cuyahoga-co farmer. His wife told police that he attended a Bible meeting last night and was apparently enroute home when he met death.

Authorities expressed belief that Melting had no intention of molesting the girl but that he had first approached the car out of curiosity and became angered when Young met his questions with cool replies and refused to explain their presence there.

"He (Melting) came up to our car and turned a flashlight he was carrying on Miss Beiter and myself," Young said in a statement to Mayor A. W. Simonson, of Pepper Pike. "Then he opened the door and demanded to know why we were parked without lights."

The college student asked the man to display a badge of authority showing his right to question them.

TOOK AUTOMATIC

"Before we had a chance to say anything further, he grabbed Miss Beiter and started to drag her from the seat," the Congressman's nephew continued. "While she was scratching at his face and trying to keep from being pulled out of the car, I grabbed the automatic in the pocket of the car."

"I told him to stop or I would shoot. He didn't stop."

Mayor Simonson said that preliminary investigation tended to show that the youth was fully justified in firing the shot. Melting, he stated, had no official status in the village and had no right to question parked motorists.

SCHOOLS GAIN TAX ON FUELS

Check For $9,054.99 To Be Christmas Present; Money Figured Per Pupil.

Pickaway-co will receive a check for $9,054.99 in Wednesday morning's mail from the office of State Auditor Joe Tracy as the county's share of the first distribution of liquid fuel tax revenues.

Circleville will receive $2,751.20 and the county schools will divide $6,303.79.

The money, more than $2,000,000 of it, is being distributed through the state on the basis of average daily attendance for each school district.

The total average attendance reported for all the state's districts was 1,200,998, according to Joseph Fichter, assistant state director of education.

Each school district is to receive an estimated $8 per pupil during the year, or about $2 for each distribution. The allotment put into the mail today is less than that, it was pointed out, because the first distribution includes money for special and vocational classes.

Other counties in this section of the state receive the following sums, Fairfield $13,970.93; Fayette, $6,551.35; Franklin, $9,505.40; Hocking, $7,719.91; Madison, $6,656.51; and Ross, $15,208.70.

CHICAGO OFFICERS WOUNDED IN DUEL

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—Policeman John J. Ahern, former bodyguard of the late Mayor A. J. Cermak, and Deputy Sheriff Frank Wright, secretary to Sheriff W. D. Meyerling, were seriously wounded early today in a gun battle that followed a Christmas party held by the Forty-Third ward Democratic organization.

According to early police reports, Alderman Matthias ("Paddy") Bauler of the forty-third ward shot Policeman Ahern.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Wright was wounded by a wild bullet, believed to have been fired from Ahern's gun.

LOAN CHIEFS SCAN CLAIM OF POLITICS

Charges Against Imnell and Neeley May Be Investigated Today.

MEET IN LOUISVILLE

Two New Aid Units Were Formed Monday

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 19.—Announcement concerning charges that T. T. Neeley, federal farm loan appraisal chief, is attempting to build a "Republican political machine" through appointment of Republican appraisers, will be made while farm loan officials are here, Gov. William I. Myers, head of the farm credit administration, said today.

An investigation of alleged political activities of Neeley was demanded several days ago by C. V. Truax, Ohio congressman, in a communication to President Roosevelt.

Charges against R. L. Imnell, commissioner's agent, may also be sifted.

The governor and a group of officials from Washington arrived in Louisville yesterday. In the party were W. Forbes Morgan, deputy governor; Albert S. Goss, land bank commissioner; George M. Brennan, intermediate credit bank commissioner; F. W. Peck, cooperative bank commissioner; S. M. Garwood, production credit commissioner; H. R. Gaither, member of the legal staff, and E. H. LeMasters, assistant comptroller.

FORM NEW UNITS

Immediately upon their arrival, the various officials undertook the task of organizing the two new government aid units to be established here—the bank for co-operatives and the production credit corporation.

The former will aid in financing operations of farmers' co-operative organizations, while the latter will make loans on crops, cattle or other good securities. They were to begin functioning today.

With the establishment of these new units, the local bank will house four complete federal organizations. The two at present are the federal land bank and the intermediate credit bank, both headed by Ernest Rice, president.

TRIBUTE TO RICE

When the additional units are organized, Governor Myers explained, each will be headed by a president, with the present directors serving as a board for all four units. A supervising agent, or executive officer will be named to head all four organizations.

There is a possibility that Rice, now head of two of the federal banks, will be named supervising agent, it was learned. Rice is not a candidate, however, Myers said. He paid tribute to the work of Rice in the local bank, stating that "he has undertaken, and excellently performed, a huge task here."

Citizens Discuss Issues

Warm Arguments Heard Between Several; Councilmen Also In Action.

The early part of the adjourned council meeting, Monday evening, was transformed from an actual business session into a period of discussion with several citizens and members of the council taking part in heated discussion.

President John C. Goeller opened the meeting by declaring the meeting was an adjourned session for the discussion of rates and informed a large gallery that an executive session would be called in a short time.

He explained the offer the Southern Ohio Electric Co. made in a recent committee meeting, which was never placed before the public because the meeting was private. This fact has created much discussion among citizens so when Mr. Goeller asked for remarks several persons were ready to speak.

COURTRIGHT FIRST

David Courtwright was first to take the floor asking that council settle the matter once and for all. He said the electric company receives $150,000 annually from Circleville without paying a penny for it. "Some cities," Courtwright said, "receive lighting for public buildings and streets from the utility which serves it."

When Courtwright was seated, James I. Smith arose and said: "Why should council rush these ordinances through so rapidly. I come to council meetings for information and I get none; we are sent from the room. Why can't these ordinances, reports, etc., be explained to us?"

After which Councilman Frank Marion declared: "I have been working with this council for two years and I find all willing to continue."

Frankfort Woman Files Suit Against Metzger in Undertaking Business.

Mrs. Ina L. Fisher, of Frankfort, has filed suit in Ross-co common pleas court against Samuel B. Metzger, Williamsport, asking an accounting in the undertaking business of herself and Mr. Metzger the terms of which she charged have been violated. She demands accounting of funds, dissolution of partnership and appointment of a receiver.

She claims in the violation of the agreement, the defendant has failed to devote his entire time to the business and to keep proper books. She also alleged he has collected and appropriated to his own use large sums of money.

FAIRFIELD YOUTHS INJURED IN BLAST

LANCASTER, Dec. 19.—Two Fairfieldco farm youths were recovering today from injuries and shock they received last night when a lantern set by one of them ignited a one-gallon crude oil tank, causing it to explode.

Junior McInerney, 12, carrier of the lantern, was cut and painfully burned and his companion, Frederick Miller, 15, suffered bruises, in the blast which occurred near their home east of here.

NEW EMPIRE

PEIPING, Dec. 19.—The Chinese government is convinced that Japan intends to establish a Manchukuo empire on the first of January, proclaiming Henry Pu-Yi, president dictator of the new state, as emperor.

Committee Session, With Much Trading Offers Prevailing, Results in Vote at 1:30 a. m. New Contracts to be in Effect for Two Years and Six Months From January 1; Parrett and Helwage Oppose Amendments, Final Contract While Other Five Approve Offer; Payment of Back Bill Result of Compromise.

Council, at 2 a. m. Tuesday, by a 5-2 vote approved a contract with the Southern Ohio Electric Co. for street lighting and domestic consumption of electricity over a period of two and one-half years. The contract becomes effective January 1.

The agreement contains the following details:

FOR STREET LIGHTING: $6,987.59 annually for each of two and one-half years. In this agreement is included a clause concerning $9,312, the present price for lighting the city's streets, the entire sum of which is owed for 1933 service. The new contract finds a compromise between council and the utility with the city paying $8,000.16 of the sum due over a period of 24 monthly payments of $333.34 each. This contract assures the power company payment of the back bill for this year.

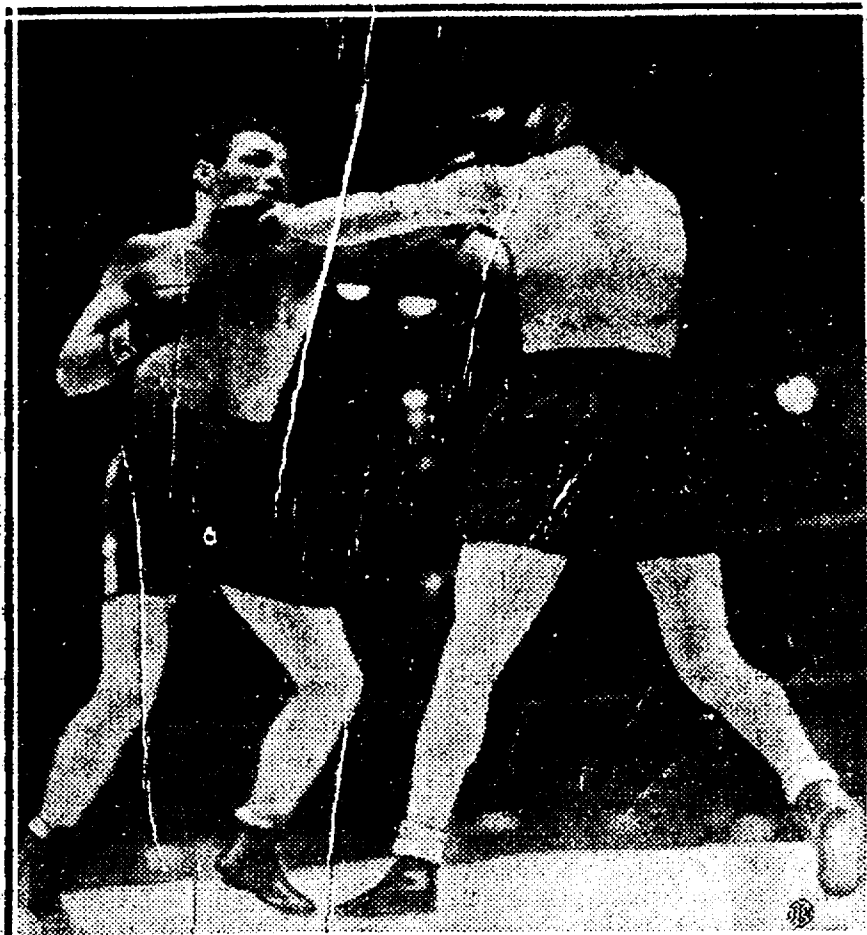

FOR DOMESTIC CONSUMPTION: A reduction in the first step of the present schedule, and an alteration in the other steps. Whereas, the present rate, which, incidentally, has approximately two and one-half years to go, has been eight cents for each of the first 30 kilowatt hours, six cents each of the next 70 kilowatt hours, four cents for each of the next 1,400 kilowatt hours, and 2½ cents for all over that figure. The rate now in effect is nine cents for each of the first 50 kilowatt hours, six cents for each of the next 50 and 50 cents for all over that mark. The power company has filed an application in the Ohio utilities commission asking the reduction in the present rate, apparently taking for granted that council would prove the contract.

ASHVILLE TO INVAD C. A. C. FRIDAY NIGHT

Another Step on Comeback Road

It seems to be a fair exchange of compliments here as Tony Canzoneri (left), former lightweight champion of the world, and Cleto Locatelli, European champion, land punches simultaneously during their bout at Madison Square Garden, New York. Canzoneri won an easy decision on points over the invader.

Andy Kerr After Ohio State Post?

CLEVELAND, Dec. 19.—"Give me Ohio State's material at Colgate and I won't lose one game in 10 years."

It was Andy Kerr, veteran Colgate coach speaking.

Was he bidding for the coaching berth at Ohio's big university in event athletic officials there decide to forgo the services of Coach Sam Willaman?

He denied that he had intended to place such an implication in his words but nevertheless the statement had caused a lot of speculation in gridiron circles here today.

Kerr, in a speech here, said that the two toughest leagues in the country were the "Big Ten" and the Pacific coast conference. "Where an eastern team has four or five outstanding players," he said, "Ohio State may have 20 and Michigan 25. Give me Ohio State's material at Colgate and I won't lose one game in 10 years."

WHY LOSE THEN

"Why doesn't Ohio State beat Michigan with more regularity," he was asked.

The gridiron mentor advanced an opinion that Michigan might hold a "psychological edge" on Ohio similar to the same spell Colgate held over Syracuse.

"It would be a good thing for Colgate if Syracuse beat us a couple of times," he said. "But that's no reason why we should lay down and let them do it."

As to the outcome of the Ohio State-Colgate game next year, the dynamic Scotchman said "give me 30 points and I'll bet with you."

"WHAT A FIGHT!"

Metal Stools, Shears Used In Bout Between Kilonis and Chewchski.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 19.—Some 6,000 fans today were still trying to classify a match that stole the show at the annual Christmas carnival of the Salvation Army here last night.

The announcer said the match between "Gentle John" Kilonis, Greek grappler of Norfolk, Va., and Chief Chewchski, full-blooded Oklahoman, would be a "mixed bout." But the announcer didn't tell half of the story.

In the second round of the match, Kilonis attacked the Indian with his metal stool. The Red-skin came back in like fashion, and for a time metal stools were the popular articles of warfare.

The Greek's next weapon was a pair of shears with which he cut the chief's hair at every opportunity. Chewchski came back in lusty fashion to hand Kilonis a severe pummeling, part of the time with his hand covered by a hood slipped on by his adversary.

A wild swing landed on the jaw of Leo Alexander, the referee, and knocked him unconscious.

Kilonis grew angry as the battle proceeded, and he suddenly left for parts unknown. Chewchski was named winner.

A draw verdict was returned in the main go, a bitterly contested affair between John Pesek of Ravenna, Neb., and Hans Kampfer, German champion.

YALE AFTER KIPKE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 19.—Yale today was uncertain whether it had a new deal in football coaches. Campus consensus seemed to agree that Harry Kipke of Michigan will be signed before many weeks.

Malcom Farmer, athletic director at Yale, unwilling to take personal responsibility for firing a nice young lad like Reggie Root, is going to name an advisory football committee, to help him reach a decision. If the committee has the same opinion as most old Eli men, Root is as good as out right now and Kipke is in.

CLARK TO COLLEGE?

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 19.—George (Potsy) Clark of Indianapolis, coach of the Portsmouth, Ohio, Spartans of the National Professional football league, may return to the ranks of college mentors it was reported here today. Clark formerly coached at Butler University, Minnesota, Kansas and Michigan State.

Reports here were that Clark was being mentioned in connection with the search for a new coach for Dartmouth College.

Clark who piloted his Portsmouth club to a 40 to 6 victory over the Charlotte Bantams at Charlotte, N. C., Sunday remained in the east today and could not be reached for a statement.

FRIEDMAN IS DONE AS 'PRO' GRIDDER

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Benny Friedman, former Michigan football star and for the last seven years an outstanding performer on professional gridiron teams, has played his last game of football. The man who is rated one of the greatest quarterbacks of all time, said today he intends to take up coaching and in this connection it was rumored that he will be offered the position at City College of New York.

Letters to Santa Claus

Dear Santa Claus:

I have been thinking about you for the last two weeks and was just thinking what I wanted for Christmas. I want a horn, drum, blackboard, gun, automobile with lights on it and lots of candy, oranges and nuts.

Please remember my little brother, Gerald, and bring him some toys. I will go to bed early and will be expecting you sometime in the night.

From your little friend and

Gale Goldsberry,
522 S. Scioto St.

Dear Santa:

I am a good boy four years old. Please bring me a scooter, leather jacket, some candy, oranges and nuts. Don't forget my little brother, Jim, who is two years old. Joseph Bailey, 830 Maplewood Ave.

Dear Santa Claus:

I would like a set of dishes, a blackboard, some clothes, boots, a doll baby that says mama, a desk, a pocketbook that has a mirror in it, a table that has two chairs, a good book to read, a little coal stove, pans and a little telephone. Lucille Lane, 415 Half Ave.

Dear Santa:

I am a little girl seven years old in the second grade. I am a good little girl and get good grades. Please bring me a sweater, a pair of slippers, clay and pajamas. I have kept my big doll from last year, but I would like to have a big buggy to put her in. I'd like some candy, nuts and oranges. Bring my little brother a horn and anything else nice, and don't forget my other brother, Junior. Bring him a dictionary and a sweater.

Your little friend,
Emogene Newton,
Williamsport, O.

Dear Santa:

I would like for you to bring me a tea set and gloves, boots, stockings, candy, cap, sweater, dress, underwear, oranges and bananas. And please do not forget the poor children. There will be hot coffee and cake for you on the table.

Merry Christmas and a happy operate. The trouble is that you do not attend enough council meetings to become acquainted with what is going on. Council is about worn out trying to negotiate. If we can get a reasonable rate I'm willing to settle. I do not believe we are crowding and we are not trying to exclude the public. We are here to represent the best interests of the people of Circleville."

Councilman T. M. Barnes, chairman of the committee of the whole, went over the report of the engineers and the various steps of the council toward rate approval.

"NOT RUSHING"

Councilman E. S. Neuding took the floor and remarked: "Council can't be accused of rushing through this business. We need relief at once. The electric company has two years yet to go on its present rate and we can't compel it to reduce that rate."

Councilman Clark Will was next heard. He said: "We've heard both sides of the argument and some have drawn one conclusion and the other." Mr. Will also cited the rate for industrial power which the engineers say is fair. "If Circleville industry can get a lower rate the domestic rate can stand to be a little higher."

Ward Robinson, dairyman, asserted that he is a user of much electric current and that he doesn't want to put in his own plant although he says he may be forced to do so. "I could not get an agreement with the water company so I put in my own well which has proven very satisfactory. If I were on council," Mr. Robinson said, "I would not have nerve enough to pass these ordinances at the last minute." When asked what he thought a fair electric rate he replied he thought the present price should be cut in half.

Ben H. Gordon, councilman-elect, asked one of the engineers to tell what a fair rate for electricity should be.

Mr. Fosdick replied that "a rate is a very much involved question. What a fair rate would be is too difficult at this time. I believe council has a better chance to act by meeting in an executive session and not in an open meeting."

"PASSING BUCK"

David Courtwright was again heard: "Council is trying to pass the buck to the engineers and trying to make them do the work instead of having the engineers as an advisory group."

Harvey S. Heffner, president of the Citizens League, called upon by Mr. Marion declared: "I do not see how any member of council can vote on this emergency measure without breaking his oath. I cannot see it as an emergency."

Guy Culp was next saying: "Can't we get a domestic rate lower than eight cents. I don't think we are getting a square deal."

Mr. Fosdick again talked declaring that in the report of his firm on local utilities the rate for Circleville was found to be $2.70 while the average rate of 33 cities and towns of similar size was $1.88."

Councilman-elect Gordon asked why council did not do as some other cities, buy its power from a producer then distribute to its own consumers?

THEN DR. JONES

Dr. Howard Jones was then

Discussing Your Income

Henry Morgenthau, Jr. (left), Acting Secretary of the Treasury, shown with Rep. Robert L. Doughton, North Carolina, chairman of House Ways and Means Committee, and Guy T. Helvering, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, as they discussed income tax proposals. Morgenthau favors a lower tax on earned income tax returns by husband and wife.

called upon by a member of council and replied with the following statement:

"When a person says he is an expert he must prove himself so when going before a court. I was in the first light company organized in Circleville, the first incorporated in the United States. I operated that company for 31 years until I sold out in 1915. I saw four different systems used in the plant in that time all of which became obsolete within a short time. That is one of the problems any light plant faces today, obsolescence. I believe the electric company has reached the price for street lighting advocated by your engineers. Since the question this evening seems to be changed to that of municipal ownership," Dr. Jones stated, "I am unalterably opposed at this time. All you need to do is read the history of the Columbus municipal plant."

"Municipal ownership involves the question of competing with a plant already in operation. I also believe that any system you install will be obsolete in five years," he concluded.

Ward Robinson asked Dr. Jones why other municipally owned plants make money and the physician replied that they made their money at higher rates.

Ben Gordon and Mr. Robinson both cited Bellefontaine explaining the money the city has made with a municipal plant.

CALLED TO END

President Goeller then called a halt to the controversy and told the gallery council was ready for an executive session. In leaving the council chamber, James I. Smith thanked council for the courtesy of permitting the discussion and said, quoting the Bible, "As a man soweth so shall he reap."

Council's 'star chamber' session began at 10:15 and the details of that meeting are found in another column.

CONTRACTS

Fred McKay, S. M. Haffey and C. T. Gilmore.

Upon hearing the two alternatives Mr. Poston asked a few minutes' time and retired from the council room with his aides where the matter was discussed. When they returned, the spokesman said it would be necessary to reject both offers, but he countered with the 8-6-4 cent proposal and the street lighting contract as offered for two and one-half years providing the city's 1933 indebtedness of $9,312 would be paid monthly over a period of 24 months to assure the power company its money. The bill for this year has accumulated after the street lighting contract expired.

REACH COMPROMISE

This proposal did not strike a popular chord in council with C. O. Leist declaring he was opposed to it. Finally it was agreed to pay $8,000 of the $9,312 due as requested so Mr. McKay amended the ordinance to read the suitable way.

The ordinance concludes a rate controversy of 18 months with the council and the electric company as principals. The ordinance, as passed, will lift one load from the shoulders of the incoming council which takes office January 1. Four members of the present council retire at that time.

The present council holds its "grand finale" Wednesday evening at which time it is possible gas rates will be up for action. Harold M. Jay and George Foerster of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. remained in city hall until the meeting adjourned Tuesday morning hoping their offer might receive a third reading. They were told by councilmen to return Wednesday. The gas ordinance could be passed without suspension of rules because it, too, has been read twice. Council also has an offer of the Ohio Water Service Co. before it.

The Panama canal can accommodate any ship afloat, being 110 feet wide in the lock chambers. The largest vessel in operation is the S. S. Majestic, 100 feet 1 inch wide. The S. S. Leviathan is the widest American vessel and has a breadth of 100 feet 3 inches.

O'MAHONEY NAMED WYOMING SENATOR

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 19.—Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Cheyenne, acting postmaster general, was in route to Washington, D. C., today bearing his official appointment as United States senator from Wyoming. O'Mahoney will succeed the late Senator John E. Kendrick, under whom he served as a secretary several years.

Gov. Leslie A. Miller announced shortly after Senator Kendrick's death that O'Mahoney would be appointed to the position.

You wouldn't think this charming smile was beaming from beneath a metaphorical Senatorial toga, but it is. The owner is Miss Laura Barkley, daughter of the Senator from Kentucky, who is pinch-hitting for her dad in the capital. Miss Barkley is attending to the Senator's office routine until he arrives for the reconvening of Congress.

Named for Congress

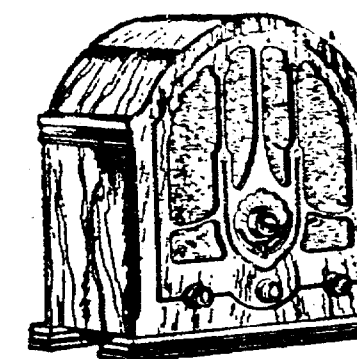

Mrs. Marian Clarke, of Fraser, N. Y., who has been nominated by the Republican Party to succeed her late husband, Congressman John D. Clarke, for the 34th New York District, Congressman Clarke was serving his fifth term when he was killed in an auto accident last month.

The Low-Down on the Saw Milling Business

By IRVIN S. COBB

AN OFFICE-MAN for a Chicago lumber concern decided to get into the business on his own account. Sight unseen for cash, he purchased a mill property in the White River bottoms of Arkansas at a figure which seemed to him highly attractive. He settled up his affairs in the city and caught a train for the South to take over the bargain he had acquired.

At a desolate way-station on the edge of a swamp he left the cars. The man from whom he had purchased, a lean, whiskered individual, met him with a team and a buckboard, and together they started on the long drive fourteen miles back in the country to the scene of the Chicagoan's prospective future operations. As they bumped along over the corduroy road the Northern man turned to his companion and said: "I'm hoping you to put me onto the ropes. I know something about the selling end of the game but this is going to be my first experience in the actual getting out of the raw stock."

"Well, suh," said the late proprietor, "I'll give you my own experiences in the saw-mill business and then you kin draw your own conclusions. This yere mill I sold you didn't cost me nary cent to begin with. When my father-in-law died he left it to me all complete and clear of debt."

"Labor ain't cost me nothin' because my two boys and me do all the work and we ain't never had to hire no outside help. And the timber we've cut ain't cost nothin' neither 'cause, just between you and me, we been sort o' stealin' it off the land of a rich Yankee who owns a big stretch of the bottoms and ain't got nobody watchin' it."

"I've also been kind of favored in the matter of shipments, seein' that my cousin is district freight-agent for the railroad and he fixes up things so part of the time our freightin' don't amount to nothin' at all. So that's the way she stands—no wages for outside hands, no cost for timber, and practically nothin' for freight bills."

"And last year I lost twenty-five hundred dollars."

The Lindbergh Flight

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh are home after having covered more than 18,000 miles since they left New York in the plane.

It was announced at the outset of the journey that the flight was taken as a preliminary to the establishment of regular transatlantic air routes. Colonel Lindbergh is technical advisor to Pan American Airways, and it was as representative of the latter that he made the trip.

What will come out of his journey remains to be seen. There is little doubt, though, that the flight is about to witness an epoch in the history of aviation.

The examination of a map will show the exploratory nature of the Lindbergh flight. After crossing the Atlantic coast, the plane flying over proceeded to land where they flew back north across the ice cap and straited the Arctic Circle.

During the Atlantic by way of the Shetland Islands and coming to the first stage of their trip at Copenhagen. Thence they proceeded to Helsinki, Finland, Moscow, Tallinn and on to Stockholm.

From there they visited British isles before proceeding to Amsterdam and Geneva, Spain, then next. From Lisbon, Portugal, they flew out to the Azores, then heading for the Canary Islands and the Canaries. From there they proceeded to the Azores, then heading for the Canary Islands and the Canaries.

At the African coast at Bathurst, Senegal, they made their jump to Brazil, and on to the U. S. coast. The flight, Colonel Lindbergh has held himself strictly to the work in hand. Nowhere has he proved voluble, but courteously received and responded to greetings given in the various countries visited.

It is certain that much valuable information was collected by the flight and his wife and that the flight will guide Pan American Airways in the extension of its service.

That the couple is home without having suffered any serious mishaps will be good news to many generally. Considering the many out-of-the-way places visited and the unfavorable flying conditions met with at some points, it is easy to see that the flight again has demonstrated an unexcelled skill and ability as an aviator.

A Johns Hopkins university professor boldly declares that the reports are wrong. There can be no love-light or other kind of light in the human eye, he asserts. Maybe not, but the romantic youth gazing upon the face of his fair one will continue to think he sees it.

High Cost of Bad Health

LOUIS I. Dublin, health statistician, asserts that the total economic value of human beings in the United States is about $500 billion dollars, as opposed to the material and animal wealth in the country of $21 billion dollars. He asserts that the economic loss by preventable deaths is six billion dollars yearly, while 2-1-4 billion are lost through illness sufficient to incapacitate the sick from working.

It is clear, without raising the question of humanity, much less sentimentality, that public money spent for health protection and education will be repaid many times over by reducing unnecessary deaths and sickness.

A German scientist claims to have found a live flea 5,000,000 years old. But he left unanswered the question of whether he is of pure Aryan stock.

That Chicago woman who refuses to leave prison because she has nothing to wear might find it profitable to borrow a fan and join the ranks of the fan dancers.

This age has its charms, but it hasn't produced anything with the million-dollar sound of swishing silk petticoats.

PREMIERE

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

CHAPTER ONE

The radio announcer stood beside his microphone with a fox-smile on his face and a sleek dinner coat on his back. Great drum-shaped searchlights poured floods of glaring illumination into the forecourt of the theater giving everyone a look of waxen artificiality.

Here in the balmy open air, amid Babylonian columns with the starry sky overhead and marble mosaics underfoot, mingled the most beautiful women and the best-fed men on earth. The rabble—too far back to smell the expensive perfumes—was held in check by ropes and policemen who wore white gloves for the unusual occasion.

Whenever a polished motor car brought up another star, or even an established featured player, the multitudes on the sidewalk cheered and clapped hands. The announcer's excited voice began to fall over itself.

"Just a minute folks! Here comes Sybil Hall, the screen star! She's wearing a—ha! ha!—good evening, Miss Hall, Miss Hall—Miss Hall—ha! ha!—would you say a few words in the microphone, please, to the folks out there on the air..."

Miss Hall consented in a voice warm and living. A silvery evening dress glistened on her body. The announcer's eyes worshipped her loveliness, for a moment before he turned to worship the next glittering arrival.

Before the evening was over the whole galaxy of Hollywood passed before the microphone and said approximately the same thing. All confessed themselves to be in a high state of excited anticipation and professed the keenest affection for the absent Leni Luneska.

The announcer, who was not going to see the picture at all, declared repeatedly that motion picture history was being made to-night and his words grew increasingly electrical.

At home, his wife listened in a shuddering fear that his tongue would slip and he would say what he really thought about the whole affair. It had never happened but Mrs. Announcer lived in terror until all was safely over.

A stocky gentleman arrived and spoke a few words into the ether. He was the mayor of the city.

A domestic-looking man in a gray suit—Tom Mulrooney, chief of detectives—was ignored by the announcer and passed inconspicuously into the theater.

The announcer craned his neck hopefully toward the curb as a tall young man wearing a negligent top coat over his dinner jacket approached. Several women turned their heads to look at him.

This was Lucky Cavanaugh—gambler—with his athlete's body and step elastic as a cat's. His skin was clear and tanned over high cheekbones, a bold Roman nose, and a solid chin. The eyes were gray, steady, unconsciously arrogant.

No one mistook him for an actor. The bony structure of his countenance belonged to a generation antedating Hollywood; to the period of frontier and plain and sun-baked cattle towns. This heritage was in his face yet his voice vibrated musically and his manners bore the unmistakable stamp of a cultured superiority.

"And here comes Lucky Cavanaugh!" cried the announcer into his contraption. "There's a rumor around he broke the bank at Caliente last week. Maybe he'll give us his system."

The young man smiled faintly and addressed the microphone.

The "Emotional X-Ray" is the latest startling effect to be revealed in talking pictures. This unusual screen entity is to be seen in "The Solitaire Man," stirring drama of super-Continental crooks featuring Herbert Marshall, that opens Wednesday at the Cliftona Theatre.

AT THE GRAND

When the "talkies" and "singies" became popular several years ago, Alexander Gray was one of the first musical comedy stars to be asked to sing in Hollywood. His first assignment was in the talking picture version of "Sally" with Marilyn Miller. This was followed by "No! No! Nanette," "The Show of Shows," "Spring Is Here," "The Song of the Flame," and "Viennese Nights." The handsome barytone

Mate Will Sub

If the female bob-white should be killed after her eggs were laid, her mate would take it upon himself to incubate the eggs.

"I am starving, Leni!" he rattled in his throat. "Do you want me to tell everybody—the whole world—to shout to him from the rooftops?"

He began to fling his hand and change color as policemen came rushing up. "Tell them I'm all right, Leni!"

Leni Luneska's face became smooth white marble. As the police seized the man, she spoke in strained, muffled words.

"Leave him alone, please... I will speak with him... old acquaintance... later—on the inside..."

Her escort's face was blank with lack of understanding, but Karl Kruger's step was jaunty as he walked behind the girl. There was no trouble at the door. Luneska's word was sufficient. Directly after Kruger sauntered Lucky Cavanaugh, utterly at ease.

In no other picture since the advent of sound on the screen has there been packed the penetrating study of human emotions as in this new offering. A large part of the action takes place in the cabin of a passenger plane during a flight over the English Channel. Into this small space, hardly six by twenty feet, has been condensed the drama of human lives faced with death and dishonor.

RECENTLY I HAVE received a number of letters from young mothers asking to be told how to wean a baby. This process is indeed an important one both for mother and baby. The problem is often bewildering and alarming to the young mother. Yet it is made to seem more difficult than it really is.

"When shall I wean my baby?" This is the question most frequently asked. As a rule weaning is started at about the eighth or ninth month. Of course, it may begin earlier, some mothers weaning their babies at three months or six months. If the mother is ill with a severe constitutional disease, or if her milk is of poor quality and lacking in quantity, partial or complete weaning must be undertaken speedily, no matter what may be the age of the infant.

New "Brain Truster"

The recent move towards a merger of all communications of the U. S. under a new Federal control board has brought forward the name of Dr. W. M. W. Spalwyn, professor of economics at the University of Texas, as a new "Brain Trust" member. He'll compile telephone, telegraph, cable and radio companies' financial data for analysis.

omit another and gradually substitute all breast feedings with bottle feedings. The entire process should not take longer than one month.

Baby Will Lose Weight

Many mothers become alarmed because the baby loses weight when weaning begins. Be assured that there is no need for worry, because it is natural for the baby to lose some weight until becoming accustomed to the new milk. Of course, continued loss of weight must not be ignored. It is usually a sign that the child is not receiving sufficient nourishment.

Many mothers delay weaning unnecessarily. Bear in mind that the longer the delay the more difficult it may be. When weaning is done in a systematic manner and at the proper age, it is a simple procedure.

This is the time of the year when weaning may be accomplished without difficulty. Whenever possible, avoid weaning during the summer months. It is more difficult in every way for a baby during hot weather. Unless there are urgent reasons for proceeding, it is better to wait until cool weather comes.

Before the baby is ready for weaning, it should be given daily fruit juice, cereal and eggs. I take it for granted, of course, that every mother gives her child its daily quota of cod liver oil. Give the cod liver oil in the morning and evening and only discontinue it when the child is exposed to the rays of the sun, during the summer months, or by special arrangement for the nursery in the winter.

ORDINANCE NO. 794 Amending section thirty three of the revised ordinances of the city of Circleville, Ohio, under the subtitle of "treasurers."

Whereas, heretofore, by ordinance duly passed it has been made mandatory for the City Treasurer of said city to post a bond with said city for the faithful performance of his duties in the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars;

And Whereas, it is not deemed necessary under the present conditions to require said treasurer to post such bond in such amount, Now, Therefore, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CIRCLEVILLE, STATE OF OHIO:

Section 1. That Section 33 of the revised ordinances of the City of Circleville, Ohio, be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

"The Treasurer shall be elected and shall hold his office during such term, and shall have such powers and authority, and shall perform such duties as are prescribed by laws of the State of Ohio, and the ordinance of said city, after consulting upon the discharge of his duties, he shall take the oath of office required by law and shall give bond in the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars with good and sufficient surety or sureties to be approved by the Mayor as provided by law conditioned upon the faithful discharge of the duties of his office."

Section 2. That any ordinance or part or parts of any ordinance in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance, and especially the provisions of Ordinance No. 734 heretofore passed by the Council of the City of Circleville, 1931, shall and the same are hereby repealed.

Section 3. That this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed in Council this 6th day of December, 1933.

session are bringing bulging portfolios filled with letters and complaints about the operation of the Act. Several informal conferences have already been held on Capitol Hill on the situation.

Chief objections center around: first, the 5 per cent interest rate that home owners must pay under the present law; second, the difficulty home owners are encountering in persuading mortgage holders to accept Home Loan Corporation bonds in exchange for their debts.

These bonds are not government securities. The government merely guarantees interest payment. The demand is that the government make them full-fledged government bonds, with an interest rate in line with those of other government securities.

Merry-Go-Round

Autograph collectors of the future are going to have a hard time with members of the Roosevelt Cabinet. Few of them sign their own mail, but have ghost-signers who can imitate their signatures almost perfectly.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes has a woman sign his letters and few people can differentiate between their signatures. The past master at signing mail, however, is John Martyn, for twelve years assistant to the Secretary of War.

He has learned to write the signatures of John Weeks, Dwight D. Davis, James M. Good, Pat Hurley, George Dern, and does them all perfectly. Alexander Sachs refuses to let his "Magazine 'Today'" with Ray Moley pinch-hitting for Elmer Zilch. Spanish Ambassador Cardenas has some sherry of an 1850 vintage. The newspaper men have fallen for the year circulated by critics of hard-hitting Jerome Frank, Counsel of the AAA, that he put two of his brothers-in-law on the AAA payroll. Funny part of it is that Frank has only one brother-in-law and he is separated from his wife. The last thing Frank would do is give him a job.

Home Helps

Gift Giving From the Kitchen

Remember the clever container that looked like a baby's toy elephant that was full of delicious candy? You really appreciated it as a gift, because it meant a little attention from a solicitous friend. You can try your hand at the game of giving gifts from the kitchen and find that if you're planning every purchase, you can give generous gifts that will be fun to make.

English folk are fond of sending a bit of the home place to friends who are away at Christmas time. In their gift boxes plum puddings, fruit cakes, candied fruit, Christmas cookies and candies make a delicious mixture.

Here's a tip—you can use boxes and candy tins if you like to be conventional, but some of the most exciting packages are the fancy flower pots in animal shapes; tin cake pans decorated with the candies wrapped in cellophane, and the whole thing on a lace paper doily with a cellophane bow for trimming; odd pieces of glassware, especially something that, although inexpensive, in itself can be used afterwards in some truly practical capacity—wrapped in glossy transparent paper is lovely. Ring molds, or fancy shapes for gelatin, bright and shiny, are easily filled and decorated.

And What To Put In It

For one thing, variety is the most important point to remember, in filling the selected container. Too much variety, of course, is confusing but different colors, shapes and flavors meet with unanimous approval.

Chocolate Nut Toffee

1 C. sugar
3/4 C. light corn syrup
3/4 C. thin cream or top milk
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. butter
1/2 tsp. vanilla
3/4 C. blanched almonds, broken and toasted

4 squares of Dot chocolate, melted

Combine sugar, corn syrup, cream and salt in a saucepan. Place over a low flame and cook to 244 degrees, stirring constantly. Add butter and continue cooking until a small amount of mixture forms a hard ball in cold water (254 degrees). Remove from the fire. Add vanilla and nuts. Pour into a greased pan and cool. Pour melted chocolate over toffee. Let stand until cool. Turn out. Break into small irregular pieces. Recipe makes 1 1/2 pounds of toffee.

Modern Dance Music; Monday Club Program

The regular meeting of the Monday club last evening was opened by the president, Miss Jeanette Reichelderfer, who read Henry VanDyke's "Keeping Christmas."

After the reading of the minutes and the roll call the meeting was turned over to the Music division which presented the program.

A splendid explanatory paper on "Modern Dance Music" was read by Mrs. B. R. Bales. She said, "Dances have always had an important influence on music, and we find them well developed and flourishing at the beginning of modern times."

"While music itself developed to new schools and styles, the dance was not conventional up until about 1895."

The minuet and quadrills from France, the Passaglia and Saraband from Spain, the Tarantella and Saltarello from Italy, the Halling from Norway, the Kamarinskia from Russia as well as native dances from Poland, Bohemia, Germany, Scotland and Hungary were flourishing at that time.

Mrs. Bales said further, "The March, which is practically a dance has been popular with many composers because of its stirring martial character. Through the remarkable work of John Philip Sousa, America is perhaps more familiar with the march than any other form of music."

"At the end of the eighteenth century, music was in the hands of the nobility. At the beginning of the twentieth we find it in the hands of all the people. Popular music of today brings to mind one word, Jazz. To some it means music that is lively and colored by a bizarre instrumentation. Ted Lewis was one of the first exponents of jazz."

"Paul Whitman was the first to make jazz respectable. He has made it voluptuously beautiful, and has introduced a new instrumental coloring."

"Then George Gershwin was introduced as a serious composer. He writes real Broadway-like tunes which have a more Tchaikowskian theme. He is attempting to put his impression of modern day life into music."

It is impossible to appraise jazz and to prophesy its future. It has developed new use for counter rhythms and new tricks of orchestral colorings."

The musical program was as follows:

Astor Scion and Bride to Be

Recent pictures of John Jacob Astor, scion of the famous New York family, called America's most eligible bachelor, and his fiancée, Miss Eileen S. Gillespie, of New York and Newport, R. I., member of one of America's oldest families. Young Astor is a son of Colonel John Jacob Astor who lost his life in the Titanic disaster, and Mrs. Madeleine Astor Dick Fiermonte.

Modern Spanish Dance played at the piano by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke and Mrs. Theodore Huston. Gipsy Life by Clara Edwards and American Lullaby by Gladys Rich, sung by Mrs. James P. Moffit.

A two piano number, Moszkowski's Waltz, was played by Miss Gretchen Mosler, Mrs. Iona Reichelderfer, Miss Clarke and Mrs. Huston.

Mrs. Frank Kline Jr. entertained with a vocal number, Ma Lindy Lou by Lily Strickland and the Pianissimo by James Rogers was sung by Mrs. Clark Will.

Rhapsody in Blue by Gershwin was rendered by Miss Mosler and Mrs. Huston, and the program concluded with the Monday club chorus singing Spanish Dance by Moszkowski and Waltz With Me by Margery Meade.

HI-Y AND GIRL RESERVES HAVE MEETING MONDAY

The Senior Girl Reserves were in charge of the joint meeting of the Hi-Y club and Senior and Junior Girl Reserves held Monday evening at the high school with approximately one hundred present.

Miss Mary Ellen Kirkpatrick, president of the group in charge, presided during the program which was under the chairmanship of Miss Vera Zaenglein.

Virginia Caskey opened the entertainment with a piano solo and E. K. Povenmire talked on "Green Pastures."

After two violin numbers by Miss Vera Zaenglein, Miss Velma Watson told the story of "The Other Wise Men, and group singing of Christmas carols was enjoyed. Santa Clause visited the group and gave the members verses which were matched for partners for the lunch served in the gymnasium by a committee comprised of Betty Barns, Polly Briggs, Margaret Bower, Maxine Niles and Martha Mossbarger.

One of the Monday night bridge clubs enjoyed its annual Christmas party last evening at the home of Mrs. Edward Wardell. A dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock by Mrs. Wardell at an attractively appointed table centered with a small Christmas tree and lighted with red tapers.

Covers were laid for Mrs. Lester Conke, Mrs. Glen Geib, Mrs. Walter H. Nelson, Mrs. A. H. Rogers, Mrs. Walter Denman, Miss Gladys Steenrod, Mrs. E. I. Gephart, Mrs. Charles Owens, Mrs. Earl Price, Miss Nelle Anderson, Miss Flo Bell and Mrs. Mary G. Morris.

After the pleasant dinner hour a merry evening was spent in contract bridge in play at three tables with high score trophies at the conclusion of the game going to Mrs. Owens and Mrs. Price. The exchange of gifts was a lovely feature of the delightful affair.

MRS. COAKLEY HOSTESS TO CLUB MEMBERS

Members of the Yo-Yo sewing club assembled for their Christmas party Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Ida Coakley of Watt-st.

Enjoyable hours were spent in sewing which were brought to a close with the serving of a delicious luncheon in keeping with the season.

Christmas greens decorated the home and the exchange of gifts afforded a merry hour after the serving. Ten members and two guests, Mrs. Fred Woodward and Miss Margaret Long were present for the delightful party.

Next week the club will meet at the home of Miss Cora Hampshire, Watt-st.

Mr. and Mrs. W. U. Moore, S. Pickaway-st., had as their dinner guests Sunday Miss Eleanor Timmons, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Seymour and son, Marvin and daughter, Vanda, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Woods, John Kilian, this city, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Lindsey of Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Temple and children, Robert and Dorothy of Thatcher, LeRoy Moore, Donald Bennett and Robert Radt.

Charles Plum, Lincoln Mader, Howard and Dean White, Misses Catherine Closson and Harriett Mason, all students at Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware, will arrive Wednesday to spend the holidays with their parents. Clarence Barnhart, another Wesleyan student, will come Friday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barnhart, Montclair-ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Rader and daughter, Joane, visited Sunday with Mrs. David Stonerock of Washington C. H.

'Round The Town

NEWS OF HOMES AND HOME FOLKS

VOL. 4. NO. 51

Published by STEVENSON'S Tuesday, December 19, 1933

Well, well, if this isn't the last time we'll get to write you before the Big Day. So, for fear that it might slip our mind, we want to wish all of our Round-The-Town readers A MERRY CHRISTMAS!

This Christmas season will be one for practical gifts, if our sales and deliveries indicate the trend of the buying. Folks are buying those articles for which they have been in need for a long time. For instance, we recently delivered a spanking new Estate Gas Range, new buffet type, insulated and heat-controlled oven, fully porcelain covered inside and outside, automatic lighter for top burners, everything to make it a real honest to goodness good modern range. Wasn't that a nice present to the home?

A modern Estate gas range may be had as low as $68.50. See the range that bakes with FRESH AIR circulated to all parts of the oven, giving even temperatures throughout the baking compartment.

Another nice piece of goods that was delivered last week was a living room suite purchased by a lady in another city. We still have some lovely two and three piece suites that would warm the cockles of the heart of any woman. And if she would prefer a modern studio couch, we have a number that is a beautiful thing. It must be good looking, well made, and fairly priced, for it has been moving out.

For the man of the house, we'd suggest one of our easy lounge chairs with an ottoman. Let him relax in one of these chairs, with his feet "cocked" up on the ottoman, put a smoking stand beside him, and he'll be fixed for the evening. Keep him at home with one of these outfits.

One day last spring, a Round-town lady purchased one of our good inner-spring mattresses.

After using it all of these weeks and months, she came in the other day and bought another one. Isn't that pretty good evidence that she was well pleased with her first one? May-be she's buying herself a Christmas present. One of them would make a fine present, alright.

Yes, and another article that will give a lot of comfort and pleasure to the one receiving it would be a DE LUXE bed-spring. Man alive, how hard it is to crawl out of bed in the mornings when you have one of these springs under you!

And an Estate Heatrola would make an ideal gift to the entire family. Dad. Make things HOT for them with a Heatrola.

Give Footwear This Christmas!!

We were just wondering what your family is planning on giving one another for Christmas this year? Why not make it a "New Deal" in gifts, as well as in Government?

This year, of all years, SHOULD be a Christmas of USEFUL gifts, and nothing can be more appreciated as a gift than.....

Footwear Necessities

Dad would appreciate a nice pair of new shoes, or spats for the coming winter. How about a pair of Hi-Top Boots for that husky nephew? Or Golashes for Uncle Henry, out on the farm? And young man, are you wondering what to get that young lady? May we suggest that our IRON CLAD HOSE are known the country over for their wonderful satisfaction. They make a tasteful gift. And for Mother what could be nicer than a pair of Shoes, or soft warm House Slippers? She'll appreciate them.
